Re: Follow-up to February 21, 2019 Subcommittee Meeting

Dear Representative Tallon:

I am in receipt of your letter regarding follow up questions from the February 21, 2019 Subcommittee meeting. Please see below and attached in response to your questions.

Inmate Numbers

1. Please provide the following for fifteen years ago, ten years ago, five years ago, and this past year:
 - a. average number of inmates housed by SCDC;
 - b. number of SCDC facilities; and
 - c. breakdown of types of crimes for which the inmates are incarcerated by percentage.

Please see the following attached:

- Chart with average daily population for fiscal year 2001 through 2018;
 - Chart with number of SCDC facilities in fiscal year 2004, 2009, 2014, and 2018; and
 - Chart with most serious offense information for fiscal years 2004, 2009, 2014, and 2018.
2. Please provide the percentage of inmates that are released in under five years, five to ten years, and over ten years. Please provide this information separately for male inmates and female inmates.

Please see the following attached:

- Chart with data on time served by inmates released in fiscal year 2018; and
- Chart with time to maxout for fiscal year 2018 admissions by gender.

Bonds of Director and Other Personnel

3. Is the bond, which is in the agency's deliverable number one and required by S.C. Code Section 24-1-120, still necessary? If not, would the agency have any opposition or concerns about the General Assembly revising or repealing Section 24-1-120?

No, the Department would not have any objection to 24-1-120 being repealed.

Reception and Evaluation

4. Please provide a step by step timeline of the process that occurs from the time the agency is aware an individual is coming to reception and evaluation to the time the individual is transported to their assigned SCDC facility. Please include one timeline for males and another timeline for females.

In each timeline, please include as many details as possible (e.g., instead of just “obtain NCIC report,” consider “obtain NCIC report and have audit of each entry in the report”) and the following for each step

- a. during the last five years, the longest length of time to complete, shortest length of time to complete, and average amount of time to complete;
- b. SCDC organizational unit(s) responsible;
- c. external entities involved and how they are involved (e.g., county facilities that send SCDC medical and other records on the inmate); and
- d. events which could potentially cause a delay in completion.

Please see the following attached in response to a., b., and d.:

- Charts with removals from reception and evaluation showing time (in days) from admission date to process dates for each calendar year 2014 through 2018;
- Reception and Evaluation division organization chart;
- Example of court time delaying intake and assignment; and
- Reception and evaluation timeline for Kirkland facility.

c. External entities include county facilities that transport incoming inmates, sentencing documents, and medical records (provided by some counties). Ongoing communication and coordination with SCDFPPS, solicitors, court administration, defense attorneys, sentencing judges to assist in interpretation of court orders. Communication with Law enforcement entities on responses to NCIC hits.

5. Please provide a timeline of a day for inmates in reception and evaluation.

Please see the following attached:

- Daily activity timeline for male reception and evaluation inmate; and
- Daily activity timeline for female reception and evaluation inmate.

Please explain how the agency decides in which cells to locate inmates while they are in reception and evaluation (e.g., charges for which the inmate is convicted, etc.).

Procedures for housing of reception and evaluation inmates are outlined in SCDC policy - OP-21.04 Classification Plan. Policy indicates that initial housing assignments at the R&E will be made by the Operations Coordinator on the basis of the inmate's age, physical size, and any other available security-related characteristics, including information received prior to the inmate's arrival or from the law enforcement or jail personnel who transported the inmate to the R&E Center. Housing for inmates undergoing reception and diagnostic processing will be in cells specifically designed for R&E. The inmate's Prison Rape Elimination Act (PREA) status will be used when making decisions regarding cell assignment. Inmates designated as PREA perpetrators will be kept, to the extent possible, from those designated as PREA victims. Housing related restrictions and recommendations of medical or mental health services as noted on the automated medical records are followed. Any inmate identified as being too assaultive or too vulnerable to be safely housed with another inmate will be housed in a cell alone.

6. Please provide any performance measures the agency monitors that are related to reception and evaluation, if any.

Performance measures used to analyze/monitor the R&E by the Division of Classification and Inmate Records includes various daily, weekly and monthly reports of intake numbers sorted by county, total number of R&E beds available, inmate awaiting institutional bed space (sorted by security levels), number of inmates awaiting processing (sorted by medical, mental health, drug dependence assessments needed and number of those awaiting record audits. The R&E Manager and Assessment Supervisor reviews the daily automated report indicating the status of inmates awaiting processing, date received and status of the inmate in the processing stage. Staff monitoring report includes a monthly report of audits and institutional assignments of each Record Analyst, weekly tracking of youthful offenders (YOA) and status of YOA processing, daily conference calls and communication with Central Classification on available beds and status of transfer of inmate from the R&E.

Also, please see the following attached:

- Average length of stay in reception and evaluation, by month, for July 2017 through January 2019

Employee Morale

7. Please provide the results of the most recent employee satisfaction survey conducted at the agency, year it was performed, and entity that performed the survey.

The retention policy is 5 years for outlook e-mail and 2 years for mainframe messages, so we would not have a copy of any messages regarding a survey. SCDC did have a researcher do a survey regarding Correctional Officer job satisfaction in 2013. The report and presentation to SCDC executive staff are attached. SCDC has not done an employee satisfaction survey in the last 5 years; however, when an employee leaves the agency, an exit interview is provided to them and results are captured through Survey Monkey.

Also, please see the following attached:

- 2013 Correctional Officer job satisfaction report
- PowerPoint presentation summarizing results of report

8. Please describe any actions taken by agency management, after completion of the employee survey, to help improve employee satisfaction.

Upon the change in administration in October of 2013, Director Stirling began monitoring trends to evaluate the retention issues. Retention Services was created to continue monitoring trends and to specifically place employees at institutions where staffing retention numbers were highest. Those employees have been tasked with transitioning a correctional officer from the SCDC Training Academy to institutional services. These staff are also responsible for being a conduit between management and new staff until they learn the correctional environment.

Hiring and Retention

9. Please list, in an Excel chart, each step in the agency's hiring process, from posting the vacancy to hiring an individual and, at each step, include the following for 2015-16, 2016-17, 2017-18, and 2018-19 (through February 2019):
- number of applications received;
 - number of applicants removed (e.g., automatic disqualifiers; mental exam; physical exam; etc.);
 - personnel at the agency involved in deciding which applicants make it through the step and which are removed.

Please see the following attached in response to a. and b.:

- Hiring process and number of applicants removed at each stage;
- Correctional Officer Hiring Process flow chart
- NEOGOV Flowchart III
- Current Correctional Officer Recruiting and On Boarding 2.1 flow chart
- New Correctional Officer Recruiting and On Boarding 2.2 flow chart
- New Hires and Promotions Selections Process 2.3 flow chart

c. Our NEO and Announced Group (5 individuals total) are the ones responsible for moving a candidate through the initial screening step for qualified applicants. The initial screening is for meeting the minimum requirements along with job specific experience needed. Second group responsible for moving candidates through screening are the Hiring Managers and selecting officials at that Institution or Division that the job class is located.

10. After hiring a correctional officer, how long does it take before the officer may work in one of the facilities? Also, what occurs during that time (e.g., verifying background, training, etc.)?

Within the first week, the correctional officer completes NEO (new orientation) they are physically in the institution. Most cases our officers are in the institutions by the second day of hire. During the initial onboarding (processing at Recruitment & Employment), backgrounds are run before a candidate is offered a position and scheduled to process.

11. Please provide the following, in an Excel chart, for each employee who left the agency during the past three years:

- a. position;
- b. assigned facility, if applicable;
- c. start date;
- d. end date;
- e. reason for separation, if known; and
- f. entity for whom the employee went to work, if known.

Please see the following attached:

- Chart with employee job description, budget unit location, start date, end date, and termination reason for every employee terminated from July 1, 2016 through February 25, 2019.

12. Has the agency identified any trends with regards to turnover? In particular, is there a higher turnover rate for sworn officers or civilians? Is there a higher turnover rate in a particular department or at a particular facility?

The agency has identified trends in turnover. One involves demographics of local labor pools of candidates within a 50 - 60 mile radius of SCDC outlying institutions. Some SCDC institutions are located in counties that have continually decreasing labor pools due to relocation to areas that are more metropolitan.

Some of SCDC's highest vacancy institutions (McCormick, Evans, Lee, and Kershaw), are located in areas that are competing for talent. While South Carolina's low unemployment rate is indicative of a thriving economy, this also increases competition for eligible staff. Due to the nature of environment SCDC operates in, it has shown as a trend in talking with prospective candidates on why they are not interested in applying.

Another staggering statistic is the decrease in applications to work for state government as a whole. We are losing 31% of our applicant base annually since 2016. Due to this fact, SCDC along with many other state agencies are seeing a decrease in applicant pool.

13. In terms of employee retention during the last five years, please list the following in order from highest retention to lowest:

- a. agency departments; and
- b. agency facilities.

Please see the following attached:

- Chart with five-year (CY 2014 – 2018) retention rates, separated by budget unit;
- Chart with five-year (CY 2014 – 2018) retention rates, separated by deputy director; and
- Chart with five-year (CY 2014 – 2018) retention rates, separated by location.

14. What type of performance data related to hiring and retention does the agency track?

For hiring, we monitor the following performance data measures:

- Qualified Candidates - Provides a strong indicator of how close our team is to achieving the hiring goal for a given period. We calculate this by (qualified candidates = total candidates per opening who move past the phone screen stage)
- Time to Fill - Adds up the total number of days an open job goes unfilled, and the average time to fill looks at all unfilled positions over a set time period. (We measure this by: Total number of days job is available and unfilled)
- EEO Reporting
- Sourcing channel - To optimize our hiring process, we have to know where candidates are coming from and which sources provide the most qualified candidates.

The statistical reports attached, reflect a snapshot of historical data that paints the picture on some of the struggles in filling cadet and correctional officer positions. (Note: JD30 positions in the attached documents are front-line entry-level cadets and correctional officers (CO1-CO3)).

Nationally, correctional agencies are having a hard time filling vacancies in prisons. This is partially due to the fact that facilities were historically placed in rural areas and the employable population has dwindled through the years.

In South Carolina, 14 of our 21 institutions are in counties with continuously decreasing labor pools due to relocating to areas that are more metropolitan.

Please see the following attached which includes data related to retention:

- Median length of service for front-line, other, and total security personnel as of the 1st of the month with SC Unemployment rate by month (Jan. 2015 - Feb. 2019);
- Median length of service for front-line security personnel as of the 1st of the month with SC Unemployment rate by month (Jan. 2015 - Feb. 2019);
- Median length of service for non-front-line (other) security personnel as of the 1st of the month with SC Unemployment rate by month (Jan. 2015 - Feb. 2019);
- Median length of service for total security personnel as of the 1st of the month with SC Unemployment rate by month (Jan. 2015 - Feb. 2019);
- Filled institutional front-line correctional officer positions v. S.C. Unemployment rate (Jan. 2011 - Feb. 2019);
- Filled front-line security positions on 1st of month compared to JD30 new hires from previous month (July 2013 - Feb. 2019);
- Correctional Officer New Hire retention rates (FY 1997 - 2018);
- Annual retention rates by budget unit and location;
- Annual retention rates by budget unit (CY 2014- 2018);
- Annual retention rates by location (CY 2014-2018);
- Five-year retention rates by budget unit and location (CY 2014 - 2018);
- Five-year retention rates by budget unit (CY 2014 - 2018);
- Five-year retention rates by location (CY 2014 - 2018);
- Security Job Status Report; and
- Statistical Report.

Employee Costs

15. Please provide the cost to train and equip (e.g., uniform, equipment, training, etc.) one correctional officer with no law enforcement experience.

Correctional Officer at Level 1 Institutions			Cost Each	Net Cost per Officer
5	EA	S/S SHIRTS	$30.00	$150.00

Also, please see the following attached:

- Chart with additional information on costs.

16. There was testimony during the meeting that correctional officers spend 80% of their time turning locks because the facilities utilize individual mechanical locks which require keys instead of electronic locks. Please provide an estimate for how much this time costs the agency, on an annual basis, as well as how those officers' time could be utilized to benefit the agency and inmates, if the officers were not turning locks.

Annual costs for a correctional officer to turn locks 80% of their time

- 80% of their day would be approximately 9.5 hours for an officer working in a housing unit
- Average annual salary of a Correctional officer at a Level 3 institution is $36,000, which equates to an hourly salary without overtime of $17.30 multiplied by 1,664 hours (which is 80% of their time annually). Equals $28,787.20 per officer

See below for annual hours and pay information

$36,000 average annual salary
÷ 2080 average annual hours worked
$ 17.30 average hourly rate

1664 (80% of officer's time spent turning keys annually, according to testimony) x 17.30
$28,787.20 estimated cost per officer annually.

How the correctional officer's time could be utilized if they were not constantly turning keys

If the majority of the officers' time was not spent manually locking and unlocking doors they would have more time available to perform the duties assigned by the post orders:

- Maintaining the safety and order of the living area
- Closely monitoring inmate activities when out of their cells
- Randomly shaking down inmates and their cells in search for contraband

The officer could also be utilized to escort inmates and to make sure they are:

- Getting to their job assignments, Education/Vocational classes, programs, medical and counseling sessions
- Offering recreation when appropriate

It would certainly be much safer for everyone, Officer and inmate, if the doors had remote controlled electronic locks. This would free the officer's hands and pockets of the numerous keys that they currently carry. It would also eliminate the fear of inmates over powering the officer and taking control of the keys and then taking over the living area.

It would most definitely remove the threats made by the inmates who refuse to allow the officer to lock or open their door because an officer in the secure control room performs this process. The benefits of remote controlled electronic locks are wide ranging and will make our institutions safer for everyone. Safer prisons equal less staff turnover resulting in an increase in staff numbers. Making it safer for staff to carry out the Agency's mission.

Drug Testing

17. Does the agency drug test its employees? If not, why not? If so...

- a. explain the circumstances under which an employee is drug tested;
- b. explain what occurs if an employee tests positive;
- c. provide, for the last three fiscal years, number of employees that were drug tested, number that failed, and type of drug found in those that failed; and
- d. if there is random drug testing, explain how the agency selects individuals for random drug testing.

Does the agency drug test its employees?

Yes

a. Circumstances under which an employee is drug tested

New Hire Processing,
Reasonable suspicion,
Workers Comp (for cause), and
Random Drug Testing

b. What occurs if an employee tests positive

If an employee shows positive he/she either is taken home or has someone come pick him or her up. The test is sent out to a lab for further testing. If the MRO finds drugs they will call the employee to verify prescription/s. If the employee does not supply the information needed the MRO will contact the Employee Drug Test Coordinator with results. The EDC will contact the Warden or Division Manager with results. The employee is asked if they would like a reconfirmation test. If the employee does not want the reconfirmation test he/she is terminated. If the employee chooses a reconfirmation test, he/she has to bring a money order for the test. The employee is also reminded the test will be of the same urine it will just be tested by another Lab and MRO.

- c. Number of employees that were drug tested, number that failed, and type of drug found in those that failed during the last three fiscal years

2016-2015 (Saliva test) → 1,200 test; 3 positive results; 1 for cocaine and 2 for marijuana

2016-2017 (Urine test) & (Saliva test) → 785 tested; 5 positive results; all for marijuana

2017-2018 (Urine test) → 1,153 tested; 11 positive results; 8 for marijuana, 1 for cocaine/ amp/met, 1 for cocaine, and 1 for opiates

- d. How the agency selects individuals for random drug testing

Resource Information Management department puts together a report that pulls names from the system each month. The drug testing coordinator travels to an institution and tests the people on that list that are there that day.

Collaboration

18. Please provide a list of other state agencies SCDC would like to work with including:

- a. how SCDC would like to work with them;
- b. whether SCDC has previously reached out and, if so, the response received from the other agency;
- c. performance measures SCDC believes may improve if SCDC is able to work with the other agenc(ies).

SCDC Administration:

- o Other state entities this division would like to work with:
 - None
- o Other state entities this division currently works with:
 - SC Energy Office, Comptroller General's Office, State Treasurer, Secretary of State, State Fiscal Accountability Authority, Department of Administration, Governor's Office

SCDC Health Services:

- o Other state entities this division currently works with:
 - Department of Mental Health, Department of Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse, Department of Health and Human Services, Department of Health and Environmental Control, Medical University of South Carolina, University of South Carolina

SCDC Legal and Compliance:

- o Other state entities this division currently works with:
 - Attorney General's Office, Judicial Department

SCDC Operations:

- o Other state entities this division would like to work with:
 - None
- o Other state entities this division currently works with:
 - Department of Juvenile Justice, Fire Marshall's Office, Department of Health and Environmental Control, SC Emergency Management Division

SCDC Police Services:

- o Other state entities this division would like to work with:
 - None
- o Other state entities this division currently works with:
 - State Law Enforcement Division, Department of Probation, Parole, and Pardon; Department of Public Safety's Highway Patrol division (on occasion), and the Criminal Justice Academy

SCDC Programs, Reentry and Rehabilitative:

- Other state entities this division would like to work with:
- State Election Commission
 - Why: To educate our returning citizens on their voting rights statewide prior to release.
 - If SCDC has previously reached out to other agency: Yes, SCDC has previously reached out, but not for a statewide initiative. They have been very accommodating when contacted; however, a need for monthly coordination statewide is needed, and SCDC will make that request.
- Housing Finance and Development Authority
 - Why: To educate our returning citizens on their housing challenges and share information on what they can do to find housing.
 - If SCDC has previously reached out to other agency: SCDC has not reached out previously but will do so under the direction of the new Deputy Director for Programs, Reentry and Rehabilitative Services.
- Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation
 - Why: To explore the restrictions that exist for people post incarceration to ensure they are not preparing for a field where restrictions exist.
 - If SCDC has previously reached out to other agency: SCDC has not reached out previously but will do so under the direction of the new Deputy Director for Programs, Reentry and Rehabilitative Services.
- Department on Aging
 - Why: To partner for placement of the elderly returning citizen that has no family or other options. What services exist for the aging post incarceration?
 - If SCDC has previously reached out to other agency: SCDC has not reached out previously but will do so under the direction of the new Deputy Director for Programs, Reentry and Rehabilitative Services.
- Department of Health and Environmental Control
 - Why: Securing bulk birth certificates for returning citizens prior to release, which is necessary for successful reentry in our communities.
 - If SCDC has previously reached out to other agency: Yes, SCDC has reached out. SCDC was told that they would assist but a MOU would have to be developed by their legal team, SCDC is awaiting MOU.
- Performance measures SCDC believes may improve if SCDC is able to work with the other agenc(ies):
 - Performance measures #12, 13, 20, 21, and 22.
 - The collaboration with each identified agency easily quantifies and qualifies these performance measures; voter's registration, housing identified prior to release, inmates who are licensed in various job skills, identified placement of senior returning citizens, and provision of birth certificates are necessary for all offenders.
- Other state entities this division currently works with:
 - Department of Employment and Workforce, S.C. Works, Department of Vocational Rehabilitation, Department of Motor Vehicles, Department of Probation, Parole, and Pardon, Department of Juvenile Justice, Department of Health and Human Services, Department of Alcohol and Other Drug Abuse, Department of Social Services, Department of Health and Environmental Control, S.C. State Ports Authority (lists of eligible inmates sent to DEW), SC Technical Colleges, and SC Veteran's Affairs

Programming, Amenities, and Costs to Inmates

19. Do all agency facilities have an Addiction Treatment Unit (ATU)?

No, the Addiction Treatment Units are located at Camille Graham and Turbeville Correctional Institutions.

20. Why did the agency move the ATU from the Lee facility to the Turbeville facility?

Per the Division Director of Mental Health and Substance Services, the ATU Program at Lee CI was relocated to Turbeville CI so that inmates that are classified as Level 1 & 2 did not have to go to a maximum security prison to receive addiction treatment programming. If an inmate that is classified as Level 3 requires treatment, an exception is requested through the Division of Operations and Central Classification.

21. What activities and/or programs are mandatory for inmates (e.g., eating meals, showering, going out in the yard, education, etc.)?

Meals

Inmates are not mandated to eat. However, Federal Performance-Based National Detention Standards (PBNDS) and American Correctional Association (ACA) Standards established the mandatory program for Food Service. All federal, state, and local detention facilities (Prisons/Jails) in the United States must adhere to these standards. SCDC Food Services prepares nutritionally balanced meals for all inmates.

Food Service standards require:

- Nutritionally balanced diets
- Sound security practices
- Protection of inmates from harm, health, and equipment hazards
- Sufficient space and time to eat in an unregimented atmosphere
- Provide Food Service to satellite meal operations
- Food and facilities are continuously inspected
- Ensure Therapeutic and Special Diets are provided as prescribed by proper authorities (Medical, Religious)
- Ensure menus are planned, reviewed, and updated by Nutritionists/Dieticians at least annually
- Ensure that foods are kept safe at all times

Programs

SCDC Policy for Character Based Units and Programs identifies several programs that are mandatory, for Character Units, once they become available in the institution. Those mandatory courses include:

- Character 101,
- Violence Prevention,
- Impact of Crime, and
- 7 Habits on the Inside.

As other evidence-based courses are identified and implemented, they too will become mandatory for those who voluntarily apply to live in a Character Unit.

The Step Down Program, for inmates who have been in high level security detention and are preparing for the return to general population, requires participation in specific programming that includes:

- Life Skills & Expressive Writing,
- Violence Prevention,
- Impact of Crime,
- Anger Management,
- Art Class, and
- Creative Writing.

In addition to the mandatory classes that all inmates are required to complete, inmates will have the choice in choosing a minimum of three (3) additional classes to add to their schedule. The goal of these classes is to help inmates express themselves in a positive manner by developing positive hobbies. The additional classes offered are:

- Spanish,
- Business,
- Max-Out Right,
- Anxiety and Depression,
- Parole Workshop, and
- Substance Abuse.

Education

“Inmates under the authority of the South Carolina Department of Corrections (SCDC) who do not test above the eighth grade level (8.0 or above) in either reading or math will be required to attend appropriate educational classes. Younger straight time inmates who are legally of school age (under 21 years of age) and all inmates sentenced under the Youthful Offender Act (YOAs) who have not earned a high school diploma or GED will be required to attend appropriate educational classes.” SCDC policy PS 08.01.

Recreation

While recreation is not mandatory, "Each institution will provide outdoor and, where available, covered/enclosed recreation areas for the general population inmates pursuant to ACA standards specifications, (4-ACRS-5A-21, 4-4154, 4-4155).

Time, space, equipment, and facilities will be made available for SCDC inmates to participate in recreational activities outside their cells. These recreational activities may include, but are not limited to, the following:

- Table games,
- Structured sports activities,
- Hobby craft activities,
- Health education,
- Physical fitness program,
- Wellness programs, and
- Intramural team activities.

Program participation will be documented utilizing the sign in/sign out log.

The Recreation Specialist will ensure that all general population inmates are provided activities in a designated outside area, either on the main recreation field or in unit recreation areas, and/or in the multi-purpose building.

Each institution will provide outdoor and, where available, covered/enclosed recreation areas for the Restrictive Housing Unit inmates pursuant to ACA standards specifications, (4-ACRS-5A-21, 4-4154, 4-4155).

Inmates assigned to a Restrictive Housing Unit, Substantiated Security Risk Unit, Death Row, Reception and Evaluation, and Safekeeper status will be provided a copy of the In-Cell Fitness Program. This effort will be coordinated with the Senior Security Staff responsible for these units." SCDC policy PS 10.07

22. What type of educational programming is available to inmates on the tablets?

The educational content planned for the inmate tablets has not been finalized but at a minimum will include the following:

- i-Pathways GED Prep

The GED Prep materials offered by GTL were developed by CAIT (Center for the Application of Information Technologies - Western Illinois University). CAIT has over 25 years of history working in distance education. This program offers six separate LMS curriculums: Language Arts, Basic Math, Advanced Math, Science, Social Studies, and Basic Writing. The GED Prep Program provides inmates with the opportunity to prepare for all portions of the High School Equivalency Exam (GED). Each content area includes multiple lessons, activities, and learning checks to assess student skills.

- KA Lite

GTL's Basic LMS Package offers the KA Lite software that mimics the online experience of Khan Academy for offline situations. Running KA Lite as a local server, SCDC's inmates can watch Khan Academy videos and do Khan exercises, and SCDC's authorized staff can track student progress. SCDC inmates will have access to over 7,000 Videos and 20,000 Interactive Exercises, all of which match the common core standards in areas such as Math, Science, History, and Economics.

- Pearson/Pearson Vue

GTL's LMS offers both Pearson and Pearson Vue systems to provide certified and accredited computer-based testing in a variety of areas including:

- GED Prep/Exam Center
- Basic Reading
- Basic Writing Package
- Basic Language
- English as a Second Language (ESL)
- Life Skills

23. In regards to the re-entry programs, what type of data is the agency collecting to gauge the effectiveness of the programs?

The agency is collecting data with regards to the number of inmates who have not recidivated after completing a Pre-Release program.

Community partners are reporting data regarding the number of returning citizens who have been provided services through their organization. Information that is currently being captured:

- Violence Prevention
- Impact of crime
- The healthy connections class
- DAODAS-addictions
- DEW program
- Forklift Training
- Goodwill
- Servsafe Certification
- Vocational Rehabilitation

The agency is currently working with Resource Information Management and will be identifying additional programs/courses for which data should be captured.

Also, please see the following attached:

- March 2019 press release regarding the Manning re-entry work release center.

24. What equipment, access, programs, etc. are available to inmates, if the inmate pays for it? And what is the cost of each?

Inmates do not pay for programming.

Also, please see the following attached:

- Chart with program listing by prison;
- Chart with vocational education certificates available;
- Chart with on the job training certificates available; and
- Chart with academic programs available.

25. What percentage of inmates receive no outside contribution from family or friends to their Cooper River trust fund account?

Inmate's Family and Visitors

26. If someone is coming to visit an inmate, is there a way for that person to check, prior to leaving their home that morning to travel to the prison, whether the inmate is in lockup or lock down or if there are any other special circumstances occurring at the prison which may prevent visiting the inmate or make the visitation process different than explained to them online?

Yes, in order to determine whether the inmate is in lockup (RHU), they would have to call directly to the institution, or check the inmate's status on the SCDC Website. Family/friends planning to visit an inmate may also check on whether or not the institution or a/any specific unit(s) at an institution is locked down and the inmates unable to visit. SCDC has a Visitation Hotline (803) 896-1838 which provides callers an option of leaving a message to obtain a return call about applications, or the option of learning which, if any, units or whole institutions are restricted from visiting for the day and/or weekend. The message, option #2 on the hotline, is updated throughout the weekend, as soon as notification is made to Visitation that there are any changes due to security/staffing/weather/etc. While last minute changes are unavoidable, it has been a valuable tool to assist our visitors.

27. Is there a way for family members, friends, or others, to submit the following:
- a. anonymous complaints to the agency?
 - b. confidential complaints to the agency?

Anonymous and Confidential complaints may be submitted to the Director's Office by calling (803) 896-8555. Concerns may also be submitted to the Corrections.Info@doc.sc.gov, which is reviewed by the Director's Office. A search of the e-mail archiver returned 5,372 inbound e-mail messages to the corrections.info e-mail address in CY 2018. This includes e-mail addressed to corrections.info@doc.state.sc.us and corrections.info@doc.sc.gov - both e-mail address domains are still active and deliver to the same mailbox. I also receive email correspondence directly.

Should you have any questions or require additional information, please do not hesitate to contact me. Thank you.

Sincerely,

*Highlighted areas indicate most common offenses for each demographic group. Inmates often are committed to SCDC with many offenses, with each carrying a specific sentence, county of commitment, etc. To facilitate statistical reporting, SCDC determines a single "most serious offense" (MSO) for each inmate. Before August 2005, the offense with the longest sentence was determined to be MSO. Effective August 2005, inmates' MSO is the offense with the highest severity level (i.e. offenses are classified between severity level 1 and 5, with 5 as the most severe). In cases where an inmate has multiple offenses at the same severity level, SCDC considers the category of each offense, where homicide offenses take precedence, followed by sex offenses and violent offenses. If multiple offenses exist within the same category, the offense with the longest sentence then determines MSO. Because of this definitional change, post-2005 MSO data cannot be compared to pre-2005 MSO data.

*Highlighted areas indicate most common offenses for each demographic group. Inmates often are committed to SCDC with many offenses, with each carrying a specific sentence, county of commitment, etc. To facilitate statistical reporting, SCDC determines a single "most serious offense" (MSO) for each inmate. Before August 2005, the offense with the longest sentence determined MSO. Effective August 2005, inmates' MSO is the offense with the highest severity level (i.e. offenses are classified between severity level 1 and 5, with 5 as the most severe). In cases where an inmate has multiple offenses at the same severity level, SCDC considers the category of each offense, where homicide offenses take precedence, followed by sex offenses and violent offenses. If multiple offenses exist within the same category, the offense with the longest sentence then determines MSO. Because of this definitional change, post-2005 MSO data cannot be compared to pre-2005 MSO data.

Includes Interstate Corrections Compact, county safekeepers, and pre-sentence observation.

Zero days indicates inmates who were assigned the same day as admitted; those with a facility assignment on the same day as admission include male inmates sent immediately to Gilliam Psychiatric or Broad River, and female inmates sent immediately to Graham.

Times for ID card, TCU evaluation, record audit, medclass, and classification review check to see if the review was done between the admission date and the facility assignment date.

Long times spent at intake are attributed to inmates who went to court for several months between admission date and facility assignment.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

Across the United States, a high percentage of correctional officers resign from their job shortly following their initial employment. Within the state of South Carolina, more specifically, the Department of Corrections documented a correctional officer turnover rate of approximately 34 and 35 percent during the year 2008-2009. In order to understand how many correctional officers desire to leave their position and the most important factors contributing to this, researchers from the University of South Carolina, in collaboration with South Carolina Department of Corrections administrative officials, distributed a job satisfaction survey to all correctional officers throughout the state. This survey was intended to not only identify the most important contributors to turnover, but also identify any factors associated with correctional officer satisfaction with the job. The goal of these surveys, furthermore, is to utilize data in order to improve the working experience of these correctional officers, enhance correctional culture, and ultimately to guide the functioning of the South Carolina Department of Corrections (SCDC).

KEY FINDINGS

- Of the 3,409 correctional officials employed throughout the state, 1,650 successfully completed and returned the job satisfaction survey, resulting in a response rate of 48.4 percent.
- Roughly 60 percent of correctional officers indicated that they are not thinking about leaving their current position. Also, 75 percent of officers indicated that they do not desire to voluntarily leave their current job.
- Over 75 percent of correctional officers indicated that they are either not looking or looking only a little for employment elsewhere. Over 84 percent indicated that they are either likely or very likely to remain with SCDC within one year.
- The primary factors contributing to correctional officers desire to quit include a need for greater compensation packages (i.e., consisting of higher pay, better retirement benefits and healthcare coverage), along with improved safety measures that reduce the risk of disease and injury.
- Correctional officials also note that they are frequently required to conceal their negative emotions about staff, inmates and administration and that if they were provided with emotional outlets to voice their frustrations, this would help alleviate this stress.
- Correctional officers desired greater input into decision-making, more career advancement opportunities and additional opportunities to make a difference in other people's lives.
- Some of the more popular rival jobs identified include member of any law enforcement agency, correctional officer within jails, other prisons and detention centers and probation/parole officer.

- Correctional officers expressed satisfaction with the amount of vacation time they are receiving and with the amount of overtime available to them. Few correctional officers stated that the prison system is overcrowded.
- Despite concerns from SCDC administration regarding supervision, almost all correctional officers who responded stated that they held positive relations with their co-workers and supervisors.

KEY RECOMMENDATIONS

- View compensation as a multi-dimensional concept. While CO's expressed concern about base pay, they were willing to placate this focus for alternative measure like improved retirement and healthcare benefits. This was also apparent in their appreciation of overtime pay.
- Develop a reward and recognition program for all correctional officials. They desire to be recognized and respected and by doing so, this can perhaps improve both retention rates and worker output. The researchers understand the financial constraints experienced by any modern day correctional system. One area of focus could be the SCDC email system in which administrative communication could include recognition of years of tenure at SCDC, birthdays, marriages and births related to CO's. The researchers received conflicting information on this email system and remain uncertain of its functionality.
- It is important to address work environment issues, and especially those concerning officer safety. Given the susceptibility officers have to injuries and disease, by protecting them, officers will perhaps feel more secure and better protected when interacting with inmates.
- Provide more emotional outlets for officers. CO's voiced considerable frustrations in dealing with inmates along with few personal coping strategies. Affording CO's opportunities or training on how to negotiate this unique workplace may reduce work-related stress and lessen turnover.
- Results from this report should be shared with the correctional officers who should be afforded more input into important decision-making within the entire institution. Correctional officers do hold both their supervisors and SCDC administration in high regard – this represents an important finding as it reveals a general sense of trust, respect, and connectivity. Technology represents the most cost-effective means of reinforcing communication and “sending out messages to the troops”.

I. INTRODUCTION

A. Literature Review and Problem Statement:

Correctional officials (COs), largely because of the demands placed upon them, are regarded as one of the most essential elements of the entire prison (Lombardo, 1989; Kauffman, 1989; Crawley, 2004). Most correctional officers are not only required to monitor inmate behavior, but they are also required to interact with mentally ill persons, regulate inmate access to program and services, oversee guard towers, enforce rules and respond to life-threatening situations such as riots. These occupational demands frequently necessitate officers to possess certain behavioral attributes such as bravery, aggressiveness and assertiveness (Tewksbury & Collins, 2006).

Given their crucial role, research reveals that whether a prison successfully accomplishes its objectives of maintaining a safe and humane environment for inmates is largely contingent upon the work ethic and attitudes of correctional officers (Lambert et al., 2009). Additionally, it has further been noted that in order to become a correctional officer, candidates are required to undergo extensive training regiments that typically cost taxpayers between $2,000 and even $6,000 per candidate, depending upon the state (Turner, 1975; BLS, 2011; VTDC, 2005). Despite the significant costs of training and employing correctional officials and the contributions these individuals make to the prison, research suggests that on both a statewide and national level there are consistently high turnover rates amongst American correctional line staff.

According to the Management and Training Corporation Institute (2011), across the United States between 2000 and 2008, an average of 16.2 percent of all correctional officers resigned within one year of their initial employment. In 2004, the state of Vermont suffered arguably the highest turnover rates in the country with over 35 percent of full-time and 77 percent of part-time officers resigning after only one year of employment (VTDC, 2005). Patenaude (2001) found that from 1998-2001, 35 percent of Arkansas correctional officers resigned annually. Within South Carolina, more specifically, in 1981 the Department of Corrections reported a turnover rate of 19.1 percent amongst statewide correctional officers. More recently, in 2008 the state documented a correctional officer turnover rate of 35.5 percent. Despite a slight reduction, the year after in 2009 saw over 34 percent of correctional line staff resigning from their post (SCDC, 2009). A number of studies have investigated both the reasons why so many correctional officers resign and the social and financial ramifications of this phenomenon.

Lommell (2004) found amongst a national sample of correctional officials that demanding hours and shift work, low national unemployment rates that offer other job possibilities, inadequate pay and benefits, stress and wrong initial employee selection were some of the most important factors influencing high resignation rates. Patenaude (2001) echoed some of these results after finding that low pay and employee benefits, stress, dangerous work environments and poor training and professional development all contributed to high CO turnover rates in Arkansas. Demographic variables such as gender, age, tenure, educational level and race have also been found to significantly influence correctional officer turnover intentions (Lambert et al., 2011). Other reasons accounting for high CO resignation rates include low levels of job commitment and job satisfaction, poor co-worker relationships and a lack of recognition and fair treatment from managerial personnel and public members (Lambert et al., 2011; Lambert & Paoline, 2012; Matz et al., 2013). These predictors of turnover intent and ultimate resignation, in turn, have contributed to a host of other problems that are experienced by the broader correctional system.

Kauffman (1989) and Crawley (2004) uncovered how work-related problems forced many correctional officers to resort to drugs and alcohol as coping mechanisms. In their research, moreover, reports of spouses and domestic partners leaving their CO-employed partners were cited as well as reports of some officers even contemplating suicide given their work-induced stress. Other research finds that because of such high CO resignation rates, states across the country are facing budget crippling deficits. In Vermont, for example, the state expends approximately $6,000 to train and hire each individual correctional officer. However, in 2004 alone, over $500,000 in expenditures were allocated towards training and recruiting officers who unfortunately resigned within their first year of employment (VTDC, 2005). This led the state to spending additional money on recruiting and training new officers. Their 2005 annual report cited additional problems for the remaining correctional officers and prisons including "...mandatory overtime, order-ins, a higher inmate to correctional officer ratio and working with a revolving door of inexperienced officers" (VTDC, 2005, p. 1).

Even the state of South Carolina noted that as of June 30th, 2009, the Department of Corrections was operating at a deficit of $45.5 million and that part of this could be attributed to extremely high correctional line staff turnover rates. Due to the increased money needing to be spent on new recruits, SCDC has been forced to cut back on other resources such as radios, weaponry and ammunition (SCDC, 2009). Members of the taxpaying public, in the end, also suffer consequences resulting from high CO turnover rates since it is their money being spent on the revolving door of new recruits.

II. OBJECTIVES

To address the general issues surrounding CO turnover rates, researchers from the University of South Carolina (USC) administered surveys to a statewide population of corrections officials. Data obtained from these surveys were then analyzed to understand the general perceptions these individuals held regarding their work. As such, survey data were analyzed to: a)-obtain a numerical estimate on the number of officers desiring to resign; b)-understand what factors influence desires to both resign or remain with SCDC and c)-provide policy suggestions as to what the South Carolina Department of Corrections could do in order to minimize correctional officer turnover intent. In the sections that follow, an outline of the methodology is provided, as well as an overview of the major findings. Finally, policy implications and key recommendations for the Department of Corrections are offered.

III. METHODOLOGY

A. Survey Administration:

In November of 2012, researchers from the University of South Carolina (Dr. Hayden P. Smith and Frank V. Ferdik) attended a meeting with key South Carolina Department of Corrections officials including though not limited to, Mr. John Carmichael (SCDC Deputy Director), Ms. Tessie Smith (SCDC Training and Staff Development), Mr. Charles Bradbury (Resource and Information Management) and Mr. Robert Ward (Deputy Director of Operations). A preliminary version of the correctional official job satisfaction survey was presented to these officials. Several survey items, especially those concerning turnover intent and its influences, were adopted and amended from previous research (see Lambert et al., 2011; Lambert & Paoline, 2012). After discussing its content, important feedback was received from the SCDC officials, which was later incorporated into the final version of the survey (see Appendix A).

On April 16th, 2013, Dr. Smith and Mr. Ferdik attended a regular state-wide meeting of SCDC officials, which included wardens from each of the 26 prisons throughout the state. At the end of the meeting, the researchers handed each of the wardens a box with the required number of surveys for their particular institution, which was calculated according to the number of COs working within that prison. Over the next month, each of the wardens administered the surveys to their respective correctional officials, with all completed ones being returned to Dr. Smith on May 16th, 2013 at the next SCDC official's meeting. Collectively, it was decided that a self-administered survey would yield higher response rates than either mail or electronic versions (Dillman, Smyth & Christian, 2009).

B. Survey Development and Data Analysis:

Section I of the survey questioned respondents about various demographic characteristics. Questions about race, age, gender, general correctional officer tenure and SCDC tenure, as well as marital status, education completed and security level (either I, II or III) were included in the initial part of the survey. Aside from the question asking how many years the respondent had been employed as a correctional officer, which was measured continuously, all other questions in this section were measured categorically (Long, 2006). As previously indicated, research notes that compensation, general working conditions, co-worker and supervisor relationships and extraneous economic factors all influence correctional officer's desires to resign (Lombardo, 1989; Kauffman, 1989; Crawley, 2004; Patenuade, 2001; Lommell, 2004; Lambert et al., 2011; Lambert & Paoline, 2012).

Section II of the survey, subsequently, asked respondents about their perceptions of the compensation received from SCDC. This section included 8 items, which respondents had to rate on a 4-point Likert scale: Strongly Agree, Agree, Disagree and Strongly Disagree. All neutral responses such as “I don’t know” were removed in order to prompt a directional response from correctional officers. Item responses were numerically coded so that higher values indicated greater satisfaction and lower values represented lower satisfaction with overall compensation. For example, item 1 read: “I wish I earned more money.” Strongly Agree was coded 1; Agree was coded 2; Disagree was coded 3 and Strongly Disagree was coded 4. Since Strongly Disagree indicated a higher degree of satisfaction with this particular item, it received a higher numerical ranking. On the other hand, item 2 read: “I feel like I will never be fired.” For this item, Strongly Agree was coded 4; Agree was coded 3; Disagree was coded 2 and Strongly Disagree was coded 1. A higher numerical ranking here, which was represented by a Strongly Agree response, indicated higher satisfaction with compensation. All remaining Likert scale items were coded in the same manner.

The remaining sections of the survey were as follows: Section III included 15 items inquiring about general working conditions and captured information regarding the cleanliness of the facilities and whether respondents experienced racial prejudice or sexual harassment; Section IV included 5 items measuring turnover intent and asked such questions as whether respondents desired to leave and whether in the last six months they began searching for other employment; Section V included 4 items about co-worker relationships and asked such questions as whether respondents had friendly dispositions with the other employees; Sections VI and VII collectively included 13 items inquiring into overall supervisor and managerial relationships and asked whether supervisors or management are supportive of line staff and whether inmates are treated more favorably than correctional officers; Section VII inquired into various economic factors found to influence CO turnover such as whether the current state of the economy was keeping respondents from leaving this job and whether being a CO is just a stepping stone to a new job.

The final section of the survey containing Likert-scale items captured psychological variables not previously investigated in past literature on this topic. This section included items such as whether respondents thought it was expected of them to help inmates through their problems and whether they should conceal negative emotions towards inmates, other employees and administration. Finally, respondents were offered an opportunity to write down any rival jobs in which they were interested within their immediate communities, as well as list the reasons for desiring those jobs and any other relevant issues that were not addressed in the survey. Completed surveys were then entered into the statistical software package SPSS 20 for data analysis. Answers to the final question were analyzed in a qualitative manner to see whether themes emerged from the various responses.

IV. RESULTS AND INTERPRETATION

A. Participation Rate and Respondent Characteristics:

Table 1 provides a breakdown of the participation rate by institution and security level. Overall, with a total of 3,409 correctional officials employed throughout the state of South Carolina, 1,650 successfully completed and returned the survey, which resulted in a response rate of 48.4 percent. Most correctional researchers qualify any response rate approaching 50 percent as satisfactory (Lambert et al., 2011). Within each of the institutions, response rates ranged from a low of 17 percent (for Wateree River) to a high of 94 percent (for Catawba). Apart from the low response rate obtained from a larger prison such as Wateree River, another low response rate came from the Broad River facility with only 61 out of 254 correctional officials responding to the survey (response rate of 24 percent). Table 2, additionally, provides a general description of the demographic breakdown of respondents. A description of each variable and their respective median values are presented. Respondents generally fell within the age category of 36-41 and had a high school education at the time the survey was taken. Most all respondents, finally, were male, Black or African American, married and had been working for SCDC between 2 and 5 years at the time the survey was completed.

B. Overview of Desire to be a Correctional Officer and Desire to Leave:

We begin our analysis by documenting the percentage of respondents desiring to be a correctional officer. In the first pie chart below, it is shown that about 18 percent of survey takers agreed or strongly agreed with the statement: “I have always desired to be a CO,” while just over 80 percent either disagreed or strongly disagreed. This indicates that a vast majority of current SCDC correctional officials never originally desired to be employed within the correctional field.

Our second pie chart below shows that about 80 percent disagreed or strongly disagreed that being a correctional official was their first career choice, while roughly 16 percent strongly agreed or agreed with the statement: “Being a CO was my first career choice”. These figures may be indicative of the fact that most correctional officials perceive of having few job possibilities available to them and therefore they enter this profession as a means of earning some form of income.

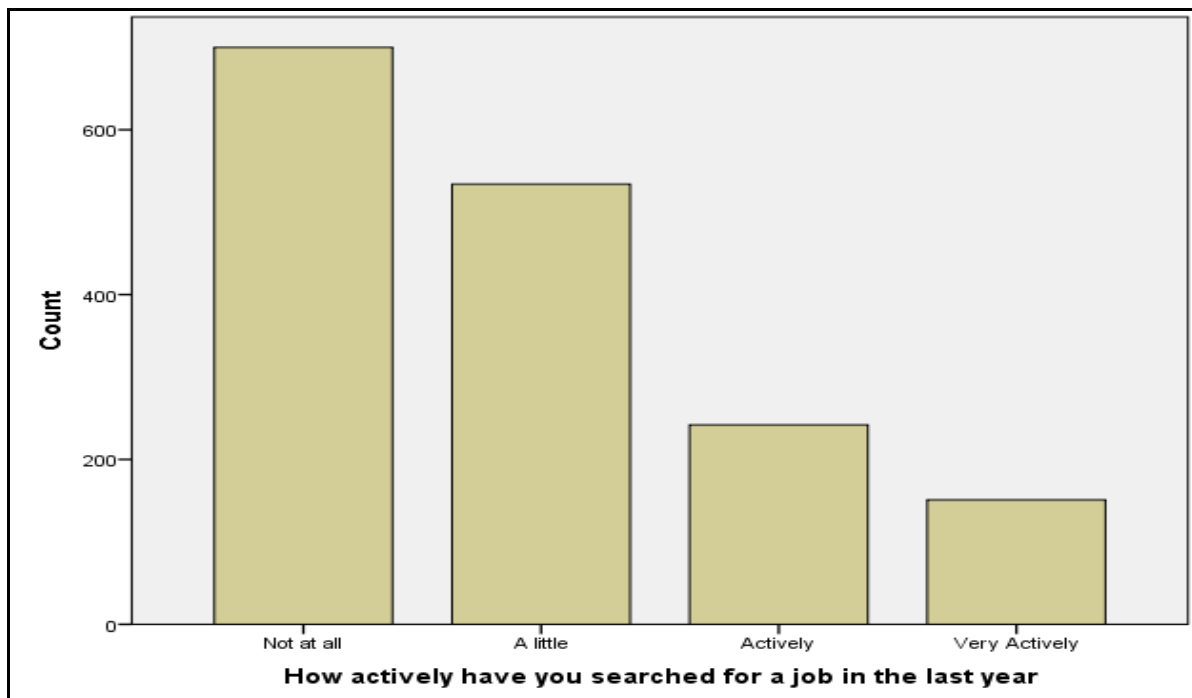

Below is a pie chart indicating the percentage of respondents who have thought about quitting their job in the last six months. Just under 60 percent of respondents indicated that they have not thought about quitting their current position within the last half year. This means that the majority of correctional officers have intentions of continuing a career at SCDC. Having only less than half of respondents thinking about quitting provides a positive outlook for current SCDC administration. It should be noted, however, that this question pertains to simply thinking about quitting, but does not indicate if any formal actions were taken to make this a reality.

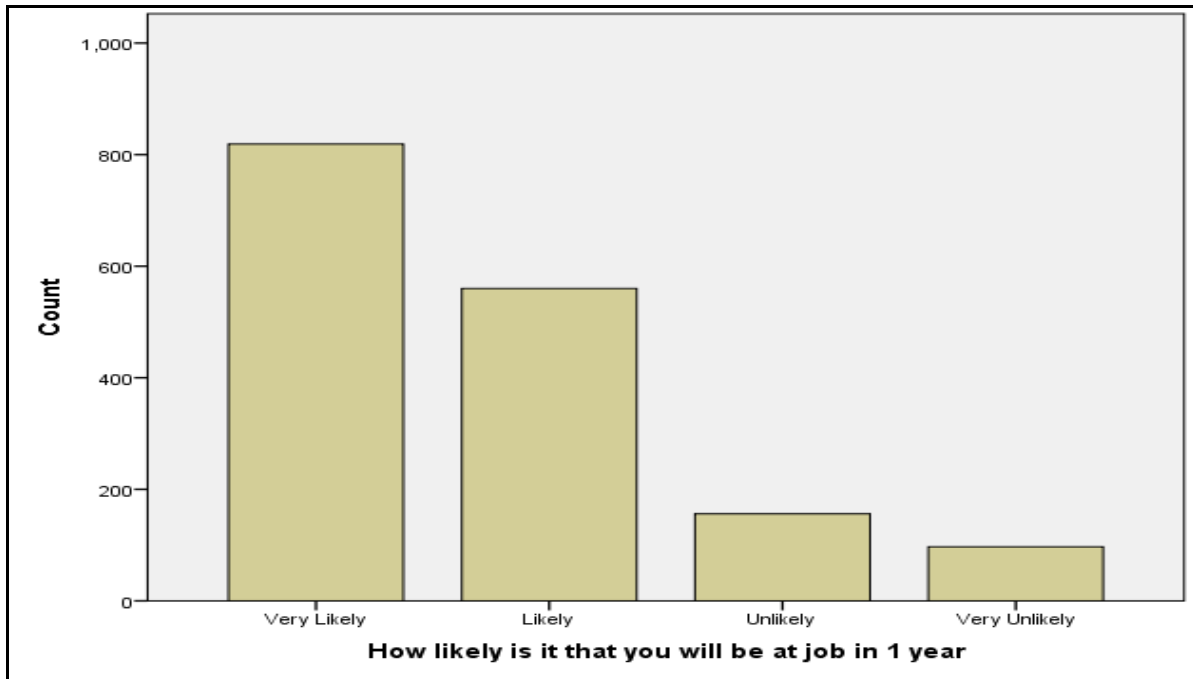

As indicated by the next two pie charts, three-quarters of respondents answered no to the statement: “Do you desire to voluntarily leave/quit your job?” Over 63 percent of respondents, moreover, answered either strongly disagree or disagree to the statement: “I frequently think about quitting my job at this prison.” These findings enhance the ones above in that a vast majority of current SCDC correctional line staff are indicating no interest in leaving, and instead, actually want to remain with this job.

Respondents were then asked how actively they had been searching for other employment and how likely they thought they would be at their current position within one year. These questions drive at the issue of what practical efforts the correctional officer has made to seek new employment. The charts below illustrate that a majority of respondents answered that they were both disinterested in searching for other employment, and confident that they would remain with SCDC within a year. More specifically, 1,379 out of 1,632 respondents (84.5%) believe that they will be at this job one year from now, and 1,234 out of 1,627 (75.8%) are either not looking or looking only a little for other employment. These data compliment the results on CO desire to leave reported above.

Although the above figures indicate that turnover intent is relatively low amongst this sample of correctional officials, there still are a number desiring to leave their position. Table 3 outlines some of the more popular rival jobs identified by respondents in their answers to the survey's open-ended question. From these responses, we see that any type of police/law enforcement position is the most popular rival job documented. The second most popular is correctional official, but in county detention centers, local jails and other prisons throughout the United States. Some of the primary reasons listed for interest in these rival jobs included: a)-more pay and better benefits; b)-less boredom compared to SCDC; c)-better managerial supervision; and d)-more respect from the public, especially if the job is in law enforcement.

Note: ^a Jobs included in the Other category were truck driver, nurse, school teacher, graduate student with assistantship and bartender. ^b Includes Local, County, State and Federal Law Enforcement Agencies.

B. Factors Associated With Leaving:

i. Specific Responses Related to Desire to Leave:

Although the purpose of this technical report is to provide a general outline of some of the concerns correctional officers have about their jobs and an overview of some of the main factors contributing to their desire to leave, an Ordinary Least Squares statistical model (Long, 2006) of factors leading to this outcome is presented (see Appendix B). We choose to not draw too much attention to this table, but it is worth noting that higher levels of satisfaction with general working conditions (including co-worker relations, facility cleanliness, supervisor relations, and psychological factors) all lead to a willingness to continue employment with SCDC. A more descriptive analysis of the main contributors to turnover intent is presented in Table 4 below. Here, we have provided a list of some of the main contributors and a percentage of the responses provided to each statement. From these responses, we predictably see the greatest concern correctional officers have, and one that heavily influences desires to leave the job, centers around money. Of 1643 respondents, 1409 (85.76%) strongly agreed with the statement: “I wish I earned more money.” Over 80 percent of respondents, moreover, indicated that they would like to receive better healthcare coverage, while 83.45 percent requested improved retirement benefits. We see here that while the concept of compensation is base pay, this includes other considerations like healthcare and retirement. Overall, it appears that general issues pertaining to a compensation package(s) are important to this sample of officers.

Other factors found to influence desires to leave the job include specific workplace considerations. Here, respondents held perceptions of the inherent dangerousness of the job (91.80%), and the ease with which injuries (95.17%) and diseases (82.88%) can be contracted, and racial intolerance (71.68%). Collectively, between 900 and 1,500 correctional officers believe that: a)-they work a dangerous job; b)-injuries and diseases are easy to contract within this environment; and c)-they experience a significant degree of racial prejudice. Issues regarding safety and respect, ultimately, emerge as important contributors to turnover intent amongst this sample of correctional officers. It would appear from these data, therefore, that officer's desire that greater measures be taken to protect their welfare and safety.

Finally, it was also found that several psychologically-based factors impact CO desire to quit. Over 83 percent of respondents referenced how they feel they were compelled to keep their feelings about inmates to themselves, while over 70 percent felt that they were required to conceal personal emotions regarding administrative staff. This essentially means that, at least according to these respondents, correctional officers do not have available outlets to voice their frustrations. This, evidently, is having a negative effect on them that perhaps is manifesting itself in additional stress and a desire to quit. These psychological questions were very basic however and further research is needed in this area to better articulate these perceptions.

ii. Areas in Which Correctional Officers Were Satisfied:

Survey responses reveal several important areas that promote the retention of correctional officers, with some being unexpected. For example, one might expect that because officers believe they are not receiving adequate financial compensation, they would be unhappy with their work hours and allotted vacation time. Instead, from Table 5 below we find that nearly 1,000 out of 1,600 respondents (59.78%) believe they are permitted a sufficient amount of vacation time. The data also show that over 1,400 officers (89.84%) were comfortable with the amount of overtime they received. However, it appears that these two factors exert little statistical influence on correctional officer turnover intent. While a substantial portion of respondents perceived a working milieu that contained racial prejudice, very few officers experienced sexual harassment (15.32%). Also, over half of survey takers (53.64%) do not believe their prison is heavily overcrowded, leading to the conclusion that these specific general working condition and compensation-related questions do not have a significant influence on correctional officer turnover intent. Instead, these responses indicate that officers are relatively happy with certain aspects of their job.

Finally, it was also found that a vast majority of correctional officials not only have positive relations with their co-workers, but also believe that their supervisors support staff decisions. Specifically, over 1,300 respondents (80.86%) look forward to working with their co-workers and over 1,200 (76.26%) believe supervisors support staff decisions¹. This indicates that interpersonal relationships within these correctional facilities help to minimize any desires to quit. This finding more than any other was the most unexpected, as SCDC administration has been informed anecdotally that supervision is a major factor in staff retention. However this survey failed to find any credence to the presence of a lack of supervision or a lack of administrative oversight by SCDC. Rather, the overwhelming majority of respondents appeared content with the current level of supervision.

From these responses, we see that supervisor relationships have a positive impact on correctional officers and do not necessarily lead to a desire to leave by correctional officers.

iii. Summary of Narrative Responses:

Of the 1,650 total respondents, 1,015 provided a response to the open-ended questions inquiring about rival jobs and reasons officers were interested in them (response rate of 61.5 percent). Several themes emerged from these answers including: a)-general happiness with SCDC and with being a corrections officer; b)-a desire to want something more out of their profession; c)-unhappiness with SCDC and correctional work; and d)-extraneous factors associated with quitting and overall job satisfaction.

Respondents Expressing Happiness with SCDC and Their Job: Just over 300 respondents expressed positive sentiments about the prison in which they work and the South Carolina Department of Corrections more broadly. From these responses, a number of reasons surfaced regarding the high degree of job satisfaction including:

- Good Co-Worker Relations
- Good pay and Great Benefits
- Ability to do Quality Work for the Community
- Good Supervisors
- By comparison, SCDC outperforms other Criminal Justice Jobs in money, benefits, resources and staff relationships
- Easy Job

One officer wrote: “I am interested in this job because it has good pay and benefits and affords me the opportunity to help inmates get back on their feet once outside these walls.” Several other officers offered similar remarks, with one stating that “This job is easy. We have good supervisors who listen to us, we have cool uniforms, and as long as you don’t get on the bad side of any of these inmates, you have some pretty cool people to work with.” A final officer stated that he would never leave this job because “I am afforded plenty of wiggle room in making decisions, I am offered a competitive salary and am given a chance to make a difference in the lives of these criminals.” What is evident from these remarks is that a number of correctional officers are satisfied with their compensation and worker relationships, and that correctional work can be both rewarding and challenging.

Respondents Desiring Something More Out of Their Job: About half of the 1,015 officers who answered the open-ended question expressed that correctional officer work does not provide the challenges and rewards needed for feeling valued. Many officers lamented that their work is tedious and unfulfilling. Furthermore, it was also found that because of their qualifications, credentials and education, many correctional officers felt that this type of employment was beneath them. Below is a list of the major themes emerging from responses within this section:

- Correctional Work is Beneath Those with Advanced Credentials and Education
- Those Who are Class I Certified are Heavily Seeking Other Employment
- Many Want to Help People and Make a Difference but Correctional Work is Just the Opposite
- Many Want to be Outdoors
- Many Feel that this Job is Not Mentally Challenging Enough
- Many Desire to Interact With Other People Aside from Criminals
- Many Would Like to Experience Other Facets of the Criminal Justice Field

One officer's comments summed up these points well: "When you have to play a cat and mouse game with inmates for over 12 hours a day, you do not have the opportunity to rehabilitate them and provide them with the resources necessary to make it on the outside. After all, we are here to help these people, and by doing so, we benefit the community. Unfortunately, with the way this job is structured, we are not afforded a lot of opportunities to benefit anyone. I seek employment with the Department of Probation and Parole because there I can actually help rehabilitate and not waste my time." Another officer wrote: "I am interested in employment that rewards merit...I do not believe this job does so." These statements illustrate that point that correctional officials want to be recognized for the job they are doing and desire to give meaning to their life. For these CO's at least, it appears that this job is not affording such opportunities.

Respondents Expressing Unhappiness With SCDC and Their Job: Between 400 and 500

respondents offered a number of critical remarks about the South Carolina Department of Corrections and the prison in which they are working. Some respondents even offered a list of rival jobs within their community and detailed explanations as to why they are interested in these jobs. Prior to providing a couple of the more notable statements, a list of some of the major complaints about SCDC and correctional officer work is provided below. The list includes:

- SCDC operates under the ‘good ole buddy system’
- White Shirts Provide Little Support, Recognition and Respect for Line Staff
- Very Low Pay and Benefits
- No Freedom or Autonomy
- Little Decision-Making Ability
- Job is Too Dangerous
- Poor Equipment & Poor Training
- Little to No Career Mobility
- Not Enough Quality Personnel at the Line Staff Level

One officer stated how “As job conditions worsen, we are expected to do more with less and that leads to too many risks. Officer pay to supervisor pay does not offer enough incentives to stay and move up the ranks. Also, what about raises??? We don’t get any...and with inflation costs, how are we supposed to live???” Another officer wrote “I do not think any other job could be as bad as this one due to the fact that management treats inmates better than correctional officers. One of these days I am expecting that they will come in and strip search us. Whenever there is a meeting it is always brought out that we are wrong or that some policy regarding us needs to be changed. I get that money is tight, but I work with 120 inmates with empty cans of gas and a non-working radio. I could even live with all this if we just received some respect.”

Another officer offered a remark regarding the way money is being allocated within the department: “If the state of South Carolina would improve their DOC and give officers a raise...there would not be such high turnover...Bringing in new officers that do not stay with the department to me is a waste of tax payer money because it has to be spent on new training every other week...They could just give that money to us, which would improve employee morale and reduce turnover.” What is evident from these quotes is that correctional officers are aware of the way money is being spent and the way management is handling personnel decisions. Clearly some of these officers are dissatisfied with the way management is handling personnel decisions, and they feel that this inadequacy is leading to CO high resignation rates. Even more, some of these officers are tired of the lack of autonomy they have and would desire to have some more input into decision-making processes. This also suggests that while negativity is expressed by a subset of CO’s towards administration, they also recognize broader challenges at the state and/or community level.

Extraneous Factors Associated With Correctional Officer Turnover: Although only a handful of respondents (6) indicated other factors associated with turnover intent, it seems important to also provide an outline of their statements. Several respondents, even though they desired to quit, wrote that they could not because three important issues, including:

- Age
- Quitting Would Jeopardize Retirement Benefits
- Current State of the Economy Offers Few Job Possibilities

Older respondents especially thought that by quitting following roughly 20 years of employment with SCDC would seriously jeopardize their retirement prospects. Additionally, some of these older respondents also thought that since they are at a certain age, it would not make sense for them to begin a path on a new career. Finally, other respondents desire to leave their current positions, but given the current state of the economy and the fact that there are few occupational opportunities, they are forced to stay with SCDC. One quote from a correctional officer explained this perception as such: “At this stage in my life, considering my age and the number of years I have already invested with SCDC, I have no interest to pursue any other jobs.”

V. DISCUSSION AND POLICY IMPLICATIONS

Research continues to document that the position of correctional officer contains high turnover rates at the national level. The state South Carolina and its Department of Corrections are not exceptions to this with the state reporting turnover rates of between 34 and 35 percent between the years 2008 and 2009 (SCDC, 2009). It has been found that such high CO turnover rates often lead to problems like high inmate to CO ratios, poorly trained incoming recruits, and inevitably increases in tax expenditures. In order to garner a more recent estimate and understanding of the number of correctional officers desiring to leave their job and the factors contributing to this, this technical report analyzed survey data collected from a population of South Carolina corrections officials currently employed by SCDC.

Overall, it was found that a majority of correctional officials do not desire to leave their job and are not actively seeking employment elsewhere. From the responses provided to both the Likert-statements and open-ended question, it is clear that most officers are satisfied with their job, their relationships with other employees, their relationships with supervisors and managerial personnel and even with certain aspects of their compensation package (e.g., vacation time and overtime hours worked). Although a majority of officers expressed happiness and general satisfaction with their current position, a good percentage indicated that they are actively seeking employment elsewhere and that they seriously desire to leave their post. Reasons for their resignation intentions center around a desire for better compensation packages, which would include a higher salary, better retirement benefits and healthcare packages. Other factors associated with their turnover intentions include facets of the workplace, particularly the inherent dangerousness of their job. A final area of concern involved psychological stress in which correctional officers must conceal their emotions towards others throughout the day. Related research indicates that overtime concealing ones emotions with few personal resources can produce host of alternative coping responses such as marital discord, alcohol abuse, job truancy and/or quitting.

Given these findings, a number of policy recommendations are offered to the South Carolina Department of Corrections. The recommendations are as follows:

- Develop better compensation packages that include not just pay increases, but improved retirement and healthcare benefits. While compensation is typically viewed as base pay, correctional officers were open to alternative forms of compensation.
- Identify a clear career ladder for correctional officers within the department. This ladder should focus exclusively on recruiting new and better qualified candidates, but it should also focus on current employees, and especially those who exhibit good work ethic. Many CO's perceived an overemphasis on placing resource on "putting out fires" related to new hires, and felt neglected despite their years of service.
- Develop a reward and recognition program for all correctional officials. They desire to be recognized and respected and by doing so, this can perhaps improve both retention rates and worker output. Solutions must be cost effective within a correctional system. As such, technology represents the most cost-effective conduit to achieving this goal. The researchers encountered a SCDC email system that was perceived very differently by different groups. Such an email system system could be used to spread messages from SCDC administration, share information or personal stories of CO's, and deliver personal messages regarding marriages, births, deaths, and career achievements (i.e., promotions, years of service etc).

- It is important to address work environment issues, and especially those concerning officer safety. Given the susceptibility officers have to injuries and disease, by protecting them, officers will feel more secure and better protected when interacting with inmates. Training and education is recommended.
- Provide more emotional outlets for officers. They must be able to voice their frustrations and by affording them opportunities to discuss their emotional problems or distress, officers may perhaps exhibit less work-related stress. While training and education is needed; more research is required in this area to specifically identify the dominant psychological stressors within this population.
- Results from this report should be shared with the correctional officers who should be afforded more input into important decision-making within the prison. This report will be delivered to SCDC-RIM (Department of Resource and Information Management) for appropriate distribution.

Correctional officers are a vital component of the prison environment and it is important to acknowledge and address any work-related concerns they may have. Hopefully the data from this report can serve as a guiding framework for the improvement of correctional officer working conditions. By improving general CO work conditions, SCDC can perhaps reduce the number of officers who resign, which can translate into a better-run penal institution, overall. The researchers will make themselves available to follow up any questions, concerns or comments. The researchers will be available to present these results to any audience that SCDC deems appropriate.

Economic Factors	-.27	.01	-.31--.24

Notes: S.E.=Standard Error; Confidence Intervals provide a range of values within which each coefficient falls; $R^2 = .39$, which accounts for the amount of dependent variable variance explained by the independent variables in this model. Summated scale items include the psychological factors, the financial factors, job perquisites, job dangerousness, worker abilities, co-worker relations, supervisor relations and economic factors. Each of the items were factor analyzed and the scales were measured for reliability using Cronbach's alpha (for those interested in more information regarding how these analyses were run, please contact the corresponding author). For interpretation purposes, we use the example of age. For every one unit increase in age, there is a corresponding .03 decrease in correctional officer turnover intent, meaning that older COs are less likely to desire to leave the job. *= $p < .05$; = $p < .01$; = $p < .001$.

AN ASSESSMENT OF JOB SATISFACTION AMONG SOUTH CAROLINA CORRECTIONAL OFFICERS

A PRESENTATION PREPARED FOR THE
SOUTH CAROLINA DEPARTMENT OF CORRECTIONS BY:

FRANK V. FERDIK
HAYDEN P. SMITH, PH.D.

Correction Officer Turnover Rates

- Between 2000-2008, MTC (2011) reported a nationwide CO turnover rate of 16.2 percent. This is highly varied, however.
- Many systems face 30% turnover:
- Patenuade (2001) found that from 1998-2001, 35 percent of Arkansas officers resigned annually.
- 35 percent of Vermont officers resigned in 2004.
- 35 and 34 percent of SCDC officers resigned in 2008 and 2009.

Factors Contributing to Turnover

- Low pay and benefits
- Low managerial and supervisory support
- Job dangerousness
- High disease and injury threat
- Low job commitment
- Other more appealing job possibilities

Purpose of this Report

- Understand how many officers desire to resign
- Identify factors leading to their turnover intentions
- Inform policies designed to retain these employees

Methods

- The present researchers, along with SCDC officials, collaborated during two meetings to: a)-Request permission to conduct the current study; b)-Amend and finalize the survey instrument and c)-Schedule a time to administer the survey.
- On April 16th, 2013, the researchers provided each warden a box of surveys, which were then distributed to their respective CO's.
- The following month the researchers collected these surveys and began entering the data into the statistical software package (SPSS 21.0).

Contributing To Turnover

- Job Desirability
- Psychological Problems
- Benefits/Compensation
- Job Dangerousness

Protecting From Turnover

- Vacation/Overtime compensation
- Overcrowded
- Co-Worker Relations
- Supervisor-Management Relations

Key Recommendations

- Develop multi-level compensation packages that include not just pay issues, but consideration of retirement and healthcare benefits. Also some senior employees feel the neglected when the focus is centered on hiring new employees.
- Develop a reward and recognition program for all correctional officials. This may as simple as utilizing the email system more effectively.
- It is important to address work environment issues, and especially those concerning officer safety. Training may be needed to reinforce workplace safety and health risk concerns.
- Provide emotional outlets for officers. Also of stress appears to stem from the suppression of emotions while at work. Programs that target CO stress should include issues of emotional dissonance.

* The reason for waiting until the end of subsequent fiscal year(s) to calculate retention is to ensure that employees had enough time to potentially meet a category.

For example: If an employee was hired on 5/29/2016 (in FY 2016) and we calculate retention on 1/15/2017 (before FY 2017 has ended) then that employee will not count toward the "1st Year" count. Even if the employee was still employed on 1/15/2017 that employee would not count toward the "1st Year" count because at that point it had not been 1 year from the employee's hire date.

* G/L Account 5020070000 (Data Processing-Other) which was previously used for Scanners was not used this fiscal year. Previously it's use, at this fund center, was only for Basic Training.

 Expenses for Lead and Hearing Tests (G/L Account 5021310000) for Range Personnel. All of these tests, for the agency, are paid for through the Training Academy. 45% are used for Basic Training Officers (per Cheryl Fouche). None entered for FY 2018.

 Scantron supplies (G/L Account 5030060000) applied only to Basic Training. None entered for FY 2018. Previously it's use, at this fund center, was only for Basic Training.

* 63.9% of ammunition used in Basic Training. Based on number of hours COs (32 hours each) and Cadets (8 hours each) in Basic Training spent on the range compared to SCDC's total range hours.

Summary of FY18 SCDC Training Classes

(Defensive Driving (1077.00) is included in Orientation. This could change from year to year.)
